Print Code Index

You can also find pamphlets listed by subject or clinical area in the Print Code Index. Here you can browse a list of items with their publication year and available translations.

1. On Library Services' website, find Patients and Public in the picture menu. Select All Guides.

2. From the list of guides, select Patient Education Pamphlets – Print Code Index.

3. In the Print Code Index, select a topic/service area from the menu on the left side of the page. On each topic/service area page, pamphlet titles are further organized by a unique, 4-digit print code number.

TIP: Use this page to find the print code of any pamphlet you would like to order in bulk. For more information on how to order, visit Ordering Pamphlets.

4. When you find what you're looking for, click on the pamphlet title to view the pamphlet.
